POE MILL TOKENS

The city of Greenville, South Carolina had more textile mills than any other place in the world. With 5 railroad lines that converged on the city it was a prime location for mills of all kinds. In the 1960's Greenville was known as the "Textile Capital of the World". For many of the early employees or "operatives" as they were called, working in a mill was a form of indentured servitude. The mill owners developed towns around their mills, which is where the "operatives" rented homes, purchase items from the "Company Store" and sent their children to the company's schools and churches. Workers received an envelope instead of a paycheck and it listed their wages less the deductions for rent, utilities, and purchases from the "Company Store". That paycheck took the form of tokens for the "Company Store". If they spent more than their wages they received nothing but a bill. We are offering 4 Different Historic Brass Poe Mill Tokens.
