DEPRESSION ERA SCRIP

We recently ran into a mini-hoard of copper scrip from the Great Depression (no, not last year...the 1930s). These coins were privately minted for the F.W. Poe Manufacturing Company (known locally as Poe Mill) of Greenville, South Carolina. These coins were used to pay the cotton mill workers when there was a shortage of cash or when the Mill wanted a captive audience for their own (and often overpriced) commissary stores.
